About the Seminar

The times that we live in are one of the most difficult if not the most difficult times that the world economy has ever seen. A pandemic like never before, a shipping crisis like never before, and a military conflict between countries with global ramifications have all contributed to making the business environment a minefield of risks.

Exporters and Domestic sellers alike are facing pressures from Buyers for extended credit periods in an environment where bankruptcies are globally on the rise. To remain competitive Indian sellers whether exporting or selling to the domestic market must give credit.

How does one balance the risk with the return? Can credit insurance and political risk insurance be the solution? This seminar deals with how these insurance products can help Indian companies navigate through the risk of Buyer default.
